Earth-covered building is emerging as the perfect building concept for the 21st Century and beyond. Environmentally sound, energy efficient, beautiful and protected from disasters such as earthquakes, cyclones and bushfires, earth covered and green roofed buildings fulfill the emerging need for a way of living which is close to nature.

This highly illustrated book examines the philosophy behind terraculture and goes on to provide all the information the readers will ever need to build and run an earth-covered home, from architecture, site selection and council regulations to building a swimming pool.
